ALLAN SCOTT Family Winemakers

Nobody has more experience of growing grapes in Marlborough than Allan Scott. Allan was instrumental in the initial planting of the region's most famous vineyards and hasn't strayed very far from his roots, with Allan Scott's cellar situated on Jackson Road, across from the vineyards of Cloudy Bay.

Back in 1973 viticulture in Marlborough was just beginning, Allan was one of its first pioneers. Allan and his wife Catherine first purchased land in what was to become known as Marlborough's "Golden mile", planting the entire property with vines. Armed with his passion for viticulture, a thirst for knowledge and sheer hard work and determination he produced some of Marlborough's best vines and developed local techniques which are now the basis of standard viticultural practice in New Zealand.

In 1989 with a wealth of experience from successfully contracting out his precious grapes Allan felt it was time to venture into the wine making world himself. Further land purchases were made and Allan Scott Family Winemakers was born.

The operation today couldn't be more family focussed. Allan's son Josh heads up the Winemaking Team. The vineyards were Josh's playground as a boy and after graduating he spent time working in some of the most famous wine regions of the world. After his return home followed by a very successful foray into the world of brewing, establishing Moa Beer as a household brand in New Zealand, Josh joined the family business and has been a constant in bringing innovative and transformative changes resulting in the modern and cutting edge winery Allan Scott is proud to be today.

Josh's sisters Victoria and Sara are also fundamental parts of the team. Victoria is responsible for Marketing and Sarah is a qualified winemaker so works closely with her brother Josh.

Agustín Lanús WINES

Agustin Lanús Wines

“Many say that driving 9 hours into the mountains on dangerous dirt roads just to check on our grapes is crazy, but then they try the wine and they understand.”
– Agustín Lanús

Argentine winemaker Agustin Lanus is an Agricultural Engineer, Sommelier and Master of Science in Viticulture and Oenology from the highly respected Vinifera Euro Master program, completing his studies in Montpellier and Bordeaux, France and in Asti, Italy.

Before and after completing his master’s degree in Europe’s most prestigious winemaking program Agustin worked in wineries around the world, including Ceretto, Alba, Italy; Chateau Beychevelle, Bordeaux, France; Rutini, Tupungato, Argentina; Bodega Burdigala, Toro, Spain; Lurton, Douro, Portugal; KWV, Paarl, South Africa.

In 2006 Agustin travelled to the upper Calchaqui Valley Argentina for the first time with the specific goal of learning more about the unique micro-terroirs found at extreme altitudes. Since then he has produced wine, as well as helped develop and manage vineyards, in all the three of the provinces which touch the Valley: Salta, Tucuman and Santa Maria. These terroirs, ranging from 1,650 to 3,100 metres above sea level and include the highest vineyards in the world. By contrast, the highest commercial vineyards in Europe are found at 1,300 metres

Today Agustin lives with his family in the fast growing wine producing town of Cafayate, Salta Province, headquarters of Agustin Lanus Wines and Bad Brothers Wine Experience.
